The Elks excursion to Hilo in the Mauna Kea leaving the foot of Nuanu street at 5 o'clock this evening, is the second excursion under the auspices of the organization and promises to be the most enjoyable one ever given. In the first place there is a much finer steamer to travel on. Then the excursionists are not confined to the sterner sex but the ladies are being taken along and will add to the enjoyment of the trip as ladies always do on a sea voyage.

Henry Easton who has had almost entire control of the arrangements for the trip has worked night and day to make a success of it and has enlisted one hundred and sixty-six pilgrims who had purchased their tickets up to yesterday evening. Among those going away for the trip are several who will take their automobiles along and make the run to the Volcano House in their own conveyances. On arrival at Hilo, sixty-three of the excursionists will leave immediately for the Volcano in the morning train. In the afternoon thirty more will go up. Seventy-three people will remain in Hilo for the Fourth and witness the games and races. Those going to the Volcano will return to Hilo on Sunday morning and all will leave for Honolulu at five o'clock Sunday afternoon arriving here about seven o'clock Monday morning.

For the entertainment of the Hiloites and the excursionists the musicians from the Signal Corps have been impressed and will go along as will also a Sockeye Team composed of C. Dixon, G. D. Center, F. W. Ziegler, J. Anderson, Mon Yin, F. B. Bailey, H. C. Bailey, J. Woo, C. Lyman, A. Williams and E. A. Center. The Signal Corps Glee Club will consist of the following well known musicians and singers: Tom and Luther Evans, A. Keoho, E. Fernandez, B. Hopkins, A. Symthe, Gene Allen, H. THE OTHER SIDE.

Captain Trainor of the barkentine Benicia which left here on the 8th of May after cutting the steel hawser of the towboat Intrepid had a story to tell at Aberdeen on arrival which if he was quoted correctly will make some Honolulu people sit up and take notice. It was not known why the captain of the sailing vessel cut the tug's hawser here. From Aberdeen comes the story as follows:

ABERDEEN, June 19. — Captain Trainor of the barkentine Benicia, which recently arrived from Honolulu with a kanaka crew, says that he had literally cut his way out of that port when he left. The crew of the tug engaged to tow the Benicia out of Honolulu did not like the idea of taking a crew of this character and the tug whistled for the Benicia to throw off the lines before she was ready. Captain Trainor believed he was not clear of the port and refused to do so and the tug was turned about with the idea, as the captain thinks, of taking him back to port. Captain Trainor cut the hawser with an ax and started on the voyage. The Honolulu papers, which the captain has received since coming up here, call his action a "vandal stroke."

COAL CARRIERS COMPETE.

The recent light cargoes of vessels from San Francisco passing through here for the Orient has been explained by the statement that affairs commercially in China and Japan were very quiet. The Tacoma Ledger of a recent date gives reasons which explain the light cargoes of the San Francisco boats as follows:

"The advent of a large number of foreign steamers in Pacific coast waters as a result of the chartering by government for coal for the Atlantic fleet has played havoc with the freight market. The normal rate for flour, wheat, etc., over regular lines to the Orient for the past several years has been in the neighborhood of $5, but competition enforced by these vessels, which have been compelled to take whatever rate they could get or leave in ballast resulted in cuts step by step to $3.50, then to $2, then to $1.75, then to $1.40, and recently one vessel accepted cargo at the rate of $1 per ton to Hongkong in sheer desperation.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Alice Cooke will get away for the Coast today.

The Hall from Kauai is expected to arrive here tomorrow instead of Sunday.

The Defender, after a quick trip to Honolulu, loaded and sailed from that port for San Francisco yesterday.

The Mauna Kea, from Hawaii and Maui ports, will be in today and ready to leave for the volcano this afternoon at five o'clock.

The James Makoe towed the barge Melanethon to Pearl Harbor yesterday morning and in the evening returned with the Billy in tow.

The steamer Claudine, which sails this evening for Maui and Hawaii ports, will enjoy the Fourth at Kahului and along the Maui coast.

The American schooner Annie E. Smale, which sailed from off port on Tuesday, arrived at Kaunapali yesterday, where she will discharge her fifteen hundred tons of coal.

The German steamer Michael Jensen, which arrived here to take on additional supplies to carry her to the Orient, sailed last evening shortly after eight from her anchorage off port.

GRAND JURY AND CITIZEN LABOR

The discovery by the Federal Grand Jury of the employment of aliens in preference to citizens on the leprosyarium at Molokai, and that the City Mill Company was getting a rake-off on the pay of some of the Chinese employees, told in the Advertiser yesterday, attracted much attention. The matter was brought to the attention of the Grand Jury when a power of attorney and an assignment of pay from these laborers to the owners of the City Mill Company were presented to Collector of Customs Stackable, the disbursing officer through whom the men are paid. The assignment of pay is void, though their is nothing criminal in it.

The Grand Jury will report recommending the employment of citizen labor on Federal work. Having made public the matter and secured the statement of Collector Pease that citizens will be given the preference in employment, the Grand Jury will probably let it rest at that.

COFER RESIGNS

directly connected with the Marine Hospital Service, dealing with just such questions as are most vital to the health of Honolulu and the Territory in general. Moreover, he is an energetic, decisive man, while at the same time he is fair and equitable in his methods and has the faculty of getting along with the people with whom he comes in contact.

"The suggestion has been made that he is ineligible to hold the office on two grounds:

"First, that the Statutes of the United States prohibit a Federal officer from holding a Territorial office, and;

"Second, that the fact that he is receiving no salary for acting as the president of the Territorial Board of Health constitutes technical bribery and the office is therefore vacant.

"As to the second point, it is, in my opinion, nonsense. The cases that have been cited as sustaining this position were in connection with an elective office, where the candidate for the office had held out to the voters that if they would elect him he would serve either without salary or at a reduced salary. In other words, the candidate was making such offer as an inducement to vote for him.

"Dr. Cofer's case is not a parallel one. He made no overtures to me to appoint him. I sought him out and offered him the position, which at first, he was not inclined to accept. I continued to press him to accept it whereupon he finally agreed that he would accept the position, stating however that he would not accept a salary in connection with the position. The office sought the man and not the man the office.

"As to the point of Dr. Cofer's being ineligible by reason of his being a Federal officer, I take the position that the law does not prohibit a Federal officer from at the same time holding a Territorial office.

"I do not know just why the protest has been made in Dr. Cofer's case when for years, both the Territorial Government and the Government at Washington have construed the law to be that there was no prohibition of Federal officers also holding Territorial office, if there was any good reason for so doing.

"There is no matter of policy involved in the matter, either of Dr. Cofer's holding two offices at once or in that of the other Federal officers who are in like position. In each case it has been simply a question of the fitness of the man and of economy.

"In the case of the Territorial Veterinarian, neither the salary offered by the Federal or the Territorial Government was large enough to secure the services of a first-class man and by joining the two offices the two salaries have been enough to secure the services of Dr. Norgaard, who stands second to none in his profession.

"The same is the case with Mr. Duncan, the chemist, who represents both the Territorial and the Federal Government.

"Now that the question has been raised I shall take steps to secure an authoritative interpretation of the Statute."

Attorney General Hemenway stated that he had checked up the claim that the failure of Dr. Cofer to receive a salary was constructive bribery and was satisfied that there was nothing to the claim, all of the cases relied upon being elective cases in which the candidate had held out as a reason for voting for him that he would serve without salary or for less salary than the official one.

"In my opinion," said the Attorney General, "an officer who has not held out such inducement to secure his election or appointment, has the privilege of accepting or not accepting a salary for his services to the public, as he may choose. In the case of Dr. Cofer, the facts, as I am informed, are that he did not seek the office nor hold out any inducement of any kind.

"I have not finished my examination of authorities upon the point of whether a Federal officer is eligible to hold a Territorial office; but so far as I have gone, I take the position, upon behalf of the Government, that there is nothing in principle preventing such holding and that the interpretation of the law upon this subject which has continuously been placed thereon ever since the Territory was organized is correct, and I shall maintain this position until I find some stronger authority to the contrary than I have yet come across, or until I am authoritatively reversed."

MCCANDLESS IS CREDITED.
Yesterday, before the fact of Dr. Cofer's resignation had become known, it was stated on very good authority that the prominent citizens behind the movement to oust the Board of Health president were some Democratic politicians, headed by Link McCandless. It was further stated that the fee paid A. S. Humphreys for the work was $1000, half of which was to be paid
